Singapore, July 23. It's boom time for new cars in Malaya. More than M$6 million worth of cars were sold last month. The total number was 1,207-479 in Singapore and 728 in the Federation.

These figures do not include jeep-type vehicles, bantam-size buses or vans. Total cales of these vehicles last month were 132 units. Several models which have mever been marketed here before are expected soor.. These include the Swedish Volvo and the new American compact car, the Veliant. An official of a leading motor firm here attributed the boom to the easy hire-purchase terms available, and to the fact that more and more people want to own care.

"Each year there are thousands of potential new car owners," he said "For instance, as soon as a boy leaves school or university and starts to work, he makes up his mind to own a car.

"He saves a portion of his salary each month, and within a year has sufficient to make a down-payment for a new car."

on U.S. tariff quotas

Washington, July 24. The present tariff rates or import quotas on several products, including lead, zinc, bicycles and stainless steel flatware, were put in jeopardy by a Court ruling which was circulated in legal quarters here.

The ruling came from the United States Court of Customs the January estimates included: and Patent Appeals. It concerned directly only bicycles, which come largely from Great, Britain, European countries and Japan, but the principle could affect imports of other commodittes, including steel flatware Japan, lead and zinc, largely from Mexico and Peru.

The Court ruled in effect that President Eisenhower is powerless to alter decisions of the United States Tariff Commission, which recommends to him whether to raise or lower import duties or set-quotas.

Many reasons are advanced for the erosion of prices, an erosian which has brought out the usual belief that the decline has been overdone.

The foreign situation is rated as a big factor, but of more importance, according to the experts, has been an erosion of profits a profits squeeze reflected in many reduced corporate earnings reports for the second quarter.

Added to these are an excess capacity for industry resulting in heavy supplies of goods which in turn presses down prices; excess inventories which preclude new buying as supplies are worked off; and competition 2000 @ 1411 from the bond market which. nided by easier money, is attracting investors.

Chicago, July 24. Republican leaders are confident that the dramatic and unexpected truce yesterday between Vice-President Richard Nixon and Governor Nelson Rockefeller has improved the chances of Mr Nixon winning the presidential election in November.

Republican candidate, and Mr. Rockefeller, his long-standing critic, yesterday announced agreement on a basic 14-point party election programme.

This reconciliation seemed to banish the nightmare which has hounted Republican leaders that Mr Nixon might go into the election against his Democratic rival, Senator John Kennedy, without the New York Governor's powerful support,

But the agreement, which the two men said should be incorporated in the party platform, has already raised some sparks in Chicago where preparations are in full swing for the party convention this week.

The Republicans concede that Senator Kennedy is a formidable opponent and that he will probably need to carry only the normally Democratic southern states. New York and a few other northern states to win the Presidency in November.

Governor Rockefeller's pledge to support the Republican nominee, if the proposed platform was adopted, convinced the party leaders that he would hold New York for the Republicans and elsewhere attract Democrats and independents who might otherwise be reluctant to vote for Mr Nixon.

But if Governor Rockefeller opened the door to party unity, he siammed it against his own nomination as the vicepresidential candidate on the Republican ticket. He insisted again yesterday that he would not accept the nomination under any circumstances and said he would refuse to change his mind even if President Eisenhower, due to address the convention on Tuesday, asked him to re-consider. Many observers accepted the explanation that Mr Rockefeller still had to be convinced that Mr Nixon could win in November and that he felt that his assoclation with a losing ticket would wreck his chances of taking over the party leadership and the presidential nomination

Furthermore, it was considered that he wanted to leave himself in a position to criticise Mr

Hongkong's population problem was graphically illustrated by Sir Sik-nin Chau in a pre-recorded broadcast on Friday night in which he appealed for funds for the Hongkong Family Planning Association.

He said: "When the Colony was liberated in 1945, it was estimated that the population was less than half a million. Today it is comewhere in the region of 3,000,000 and possibly when the census is completed, it may well prove to be much more. "What does this mean in effect? It means that today we have 6 children looking for school places for every one seeking admission to school in 1945. "It means that for every hospital bed in 1945 we need 6 now to provide the same proportion of in-patient treatment for the sick. "It means we need six times the amount of housing, six times the amount of water, six times everything if we are to ensure for our people at least the same standards as were prevalling in 1945. "Well, you might say to yourself, surely we are doing that and even more now? Everywhere we go we see blocks of flats being put up and the buildings get higher and higher; we seem to read almost weekly of a new school being opened; and we hear all the time of new and blgger hospitals, "Yes, too true. Government, public bodies and private enterprise are all concentrating on doing what they can to meet the needs of the community, but as fast as we build, as fast as we expand, we find our population growing even faster. "Just take the case of water. I remember when we were planning for the Tai Lam Chung reservoir being told by our engineers that it would provide as much water as all, our other reservoirs put together, and we naturally assumed we would enjoy twice as much water, have twice as many hours of water supply as we had been accustomed to. "For a short time our expectations were realised, but where are we today? Right back where we were before the Tai Lam Chung scheme came into being. This graphically illustrates my point.

"Our population is growing faster than we can cope with

POWER-DRUNK ARMY

The Africans-particularly the army-are power drunk, like vicious children in a reform school who suddenly raid an arsenal and take command with pistols. I am sorry for the poor Belgians-particularly terrifled women clutching their bewildered children to them-who were getting out. I am sorry too for the Africans, because in their independence and ignorance they believe the way they are behaving is the true meaning of freedom.

As from the start, an African sergeant-major became commander-in-chief of the 25,000-strong Congo Army.

WHITES IN DANGER

I have never found so many people who know so little. It can hardly be expected otherwise when the country went to independence with a total of 16 African university graduates in the country out of the population of 13,000,000.

Some Africans who voted in the election also still believe that every year at the end of the dry season white men go through the bush at night with lights searching for African children to kill and can in tins. But they had a vote. What will happen? Unless we are very lucky this is not over Khrushchev has caused the sudden political volte face the West German Socialists, and Willy Brandt is expected to banner in next years general election.

But is this move the result of genuine re-thinking or, as some say not without justification, simply a cumning tactical switch of the Socialist leaders with an eye on next year's general election?

ago, King Nep used to be known as King Neptune, Ruler of the Seven Seas. He was big and strong, and he used to ride over the oceans on a charlot made of an enormous sea shell drawn by four swift Dolphins.

Kept getting smaller

But almost everybody forgot about King Nep, so he kept getting smaller and smaller the more people forgot about him. So that nowadays he wasn't much bigger than a burnt-off match stick, and the only ones who remembered him were Knarf and Hanid, the Shadow Children with the Turned-About Names.

It was fun visiting him. Knarf park, look for the flat white rock, knock on it-and by and by, if he was home, King Nep would stick out his head and

NOT COOLING

CUMMER fare, particularly cold foods, somehow seems lighter and less fattening, and it's deceptively easy to pile up the calories and add fat padding without realising what goes on.

For example, that Summer favourite, potato salad. One half cup of this tasty dish seems so skimpy, but furnishes 200 calories. Any salad that is rich with dressing is high in fuel and fattening, and with seconds it's easy to stoke up on 400 calories. That's four times as many calories as are contained in a medium size baked potato . . . the innocent potato you shun.

Iced coffee is frequently consumed in large quantities during a hot spell. It seems so cooling. But iced coffee calls for more cream and sugar then the hot beverage; therefore, it contains Knarf asked Cousin Herk if more fuel and is more "heating" and fattening. And this holds "Happy to know you, friends he would like to show him how true for all those delicious frosted beverages.

Comforting

Perhaps the real reason there is a tendency to overeat on cold foods is the physiological fact that cold foods do not bring that comforting feeling of satisfaction as quickly as a meal wirich contains something hot. One hot food with a meal helps you to feel that you have dined well.

This Summer, build the menus around the seasonal foods that are garden fresh and flavourful. That's all Summer dieting "I couldn't fight a Lion any is, but minus the fattening trimmings. Fresh, young vegetables "Once upon a time," King more these days," he said a bit are made to order for dieting . . . unless you cover them with Nep said to Knarf and Hanid, sadly. But if you prefer more sweetening, use liquid sucaryi, a no-calorie, sweetener.

Your 'Comment' of Friday. July 22 on 'Legal Aid' deserves more than a passing glance, as it is a subject frequently discussed and often revived without any tangible result.

Also, it is not a new subject but one brought up as long ago as the late 1930's when the suggestion was first offered to one of the memof the Legislative Council who considered it worthy of attention, and passed it on to his junior colleague for comments. After waiting a month or two and several reminders to him he replied that it was 'premature' to give the idea serious consideration. This question of legal aid for the poor affects a majority of the people of the Colony, and you are to be congratulated for bringing it up again " at this opportune moment when public attention is focussed on the prolected enlargement of the Legislative Council and overhaul of the machinery of government. The concluding paragraph of your abovementioned 'Comment' should receive the serious attention of those

Civil service

The letter by Mr R. S. Sheldon in Friday's issue of the China Mail raises the question of staffing the senior, posts of the civil service with local people.

This, of course, is a matter which is not in any way concerned with constitutional changes though it has been the custom of all newly independent governments to move out the expatriates and replace them with local men and women as soon as possible.

Whether Hongkong gets selfgovernment or not, the problem will still exist.

As Mr Sheldon says, Hongkong cannot expect to contipue to get the same high calibre expatriate officer for local government indefinitely.

The problem of "localisation" of the civil service is one that exists now and one the Hongkong Government has only just way, to deal with. Samuel Pepys.

Mr. Burgess said Hongkong's young people had the blood of China in their veins and the inescapabe environment, of the Western world all about them.

"Given their age and situation what is more natural than that they should reach out for novel, precoclous, easy, light-hearted-things?" Speaking on the need for the enthusiasm in the teaching profession Mr Burgess added: "I is only by your positive enthusiasm that the child will come to know that there are better things, both in its native culture and in its Western environment, than the tinsel melancholy of twitching troubadours."

Mr Burgess said Hongkong had its faults and failings but these should not be allowed to impeir our pride in what we have done well.
